Hello TN eCampus Student!

Thank you for your interest in our TN eCampus (formerly RODP) courses. The courses are offered through a collaborative of TBR universities and colleges to allow you the flexibility to continue or complete your education online. The former Regents Online Degree Program (RODP) rebranded to TN eCampus in the Spring 2016.

Students need to know that online courses can come with some challenges since they are non-traditional in setting. Though we do have technical support available, students should feel comfortable negotiating the web, downloading software, and troubleshooting common computer issues. Students are not required to log in to class at a specific time throughout the week. Each course does, however, have a semester calendar on which deadlines are posted for each week. Students should have 24 hour access to the internet and have a dependable computer.

- Transfer of Courses: All students are highly encouraged to review the transfer tables posted on the Pellissippi State website so there will be no confusion as to whether TN eCampus courses will transfer to other institutions. The Tennessee Transfer Pathways can be found at the UT Class Equivalency website. (University of Tennessee students are especially encouraged to review this site.)

- Text Books: Students are expected to purchase text books for TN eCampus courses through the TN eCampus bookstore. Students who receive financial aid textbook waivers will not be able to use the waiver at the TN eCampus bookstore and should plan accordingly or risk missed assignments. The link to the bookstore can be found on the TN eCampus website at the top of the page.

- Additional Fees: These classes cost approximately $60.00 more per credit hour than regular Pellissippi State classes.

- For students who receive financial aid: Attendance reporting is done via an automatic data extraction and is not physically reported by faculty like Pellissippi State classes. For every TN eCampus class a student attends he will need to complete an introductory survey upon logging into class the first time. Completion of these surveys are recorded and submitted to home schools so that attendance can be verified. Further attendance updates are provided to your home school’s financial aid office periodically throughout the semester based on student activity in the course and submission of assignments. In order for your attendance to post for the entire term, you must actively participate until the class ends or your attendance will be updated to “stopped attending”. If you are posted as “stopped attending” in a course, you will be considered as unofficially withdrawn from the course by lending institutions.

- Odd Log in Time: Students cannot log in to classes until AFTER 6pm CENTRAL TIME on the published first day of class for each term. If there are delays in accessing classes, notations will be posted on the TN eCampus. You can log in to class by going to the main website and click on “Go to Class” (changes to the log in link will be shared as they are made).

- Proctored Exams: In many cases, TN eCampus classes require that students come to campus to take midterm and final exams. Please make sure to read each course syllabus carefully to find out if a course has this requirement. If your course does require proctoring, please complete the proctor request form at this link: TN eCampus Proctor Request Form.

  Be aware that the testing centers may have varying operating hours across campuses and days. Often times TN eCampus semesters run longer than others and campus testing centers may be closed for the semester a few days prior to the last day of eCampus final exams. Students are encouraged to check testing center hours before the end of the term.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions you may have about the Regents Online Degree Program or Pellissippi State Community College. I truly look forward to helping you as you pursue your academic endeavors!

Sincerely,

Karen Nance

Learn More about the TN eCampus

Currently every student should visit the TN eCampus home page and familiarize themselves with the resources there. You can also find links to the Bookstore and to a Current Students page full of information for you, especially a student orientation.

Register for classes.

First and second semester students are required to meet with an advisor to build their class schedule. Returning students may register themselves for classes online. Everyone is encouraged to meet with an advisor to make sure they are on track for completing their degree.

Access registration instructions here.

Buy your text books

If you haven’t purchased your books, go ahead and buy them via the TN eCampus bookstore online. The PSCC bookstore does NOT stock TN eCampus text books and should you have issues, staff are more inclined to work with you if you have used the RODP bookstore directly. If you use another bookstore you are doing so at your own risk. Students need to plan on having their texts by the first day of class.

Visit the TN eCampus bookstore here.
Check your PSCC Webmail

All TN eCampus correspondence will be sent to your PSCC webmail before classes begin. After classes begin, instructors will email instructions to an email account included inside your classes. You will still need to check your PSCC webmail from time to time as a student to keep up with current college and other TN eCampus information.

Access PSCC Webmail here.

Go to class

The class log in link can be found on the www.tnecampus.info site. Below is an example of your log in credentials for access to TN eCampus classes. Note they are completely different from anything connected to your PSCC accounts.

If you are a prior TN eCampus student, your account is still active, and you can access your D2L email with your existing username and password.

If you are a new TN eCampus student, you will be able to access the system on January 19th with a username and password combination as shown in the example below. Your eLearn Username is the first initial of your first name + your full last name + the month and day of your birthdate (no spaces).

Example: William Smith with a birthday of March 27th has an eLearn ID of:

wsmith0327

Your TN eCampus eLearn Password is your six-digit birthdate (mmddyy).

Example: For a user whose birthdate is March 27, 1981, the password would be:

032781

Please Note: If you are a returning TN eCampus student and have previously changed your password, your password should still be the one you used the last time you logged in.
